Whole City

afterward, succeeding billows of water began roaring through the town, sweeping playing children and their feet, crushing houses, swirling cars like toys in the brown current.

Some looting—by boatmen pretending to be rescue workers—took place in the horror-filled night hours. Six men were arrested at daybreak by the sheriff's deputies. Their boat reported filled with loot taken from second-story apartments.

The search for victims went on under floodlights last night and the probe of the emergency workers' piles and dwellings went into full pace at dawn. Hundreds are injured and in hospitals.

Vapor—once the second largest shipyard area here—is a total loss. Most of the victims are expected to be children. The playdays of the town were crowded for Sunday afternoon games when the flood struck suddenly. Many are sons and daughters of veterans living in the public housing project and students at Vantage College centered in the town. The anxiety of most of the adult survivors is for their offspring. Dozens of leaving children in upper floors of the buildings—believed in safety—buildings that later folded like tents when the flood impact struck children were torn from their grasp. Their fate is unknown today.

The disaster struck the community in a flanking of flood waters from the swollen Columbia river. The backwater and lake it formed had weakened a railroad embankment on the west edge of the city. The river level had risen to 15 feet above the Vantage table-like ground level yesterday morning.

The break came when the tracks at 4:15 p. m. (PST). The prearranged siren signal for the town's folk was sounded. But within minutes the gap had spread to 60 feet, then 60 feet and a six-foot wall of water swept into the city.

Hundreds heard the warning signal but thousands—lured by earlier reports that they were in no imminent danger—appeared to ignore the danger for the high dikes surrounding the mile square area. Today the scene was a placid pool on which the frame apartment buildings floated, shuddered, walls and roofs and household goods drifted aimlessly.

The tragedy of the disaster was told by men and women who were sheltered last night in schools and churches without knowing whether their children are among the living. Survivors scarce in shelters throughout nearby Portland told of their harrowing escape, of racing away from the wall of water, swimming to higher land or escaping from the low lying town.

They said the first 15 minutes was a maddening rush of men, women and children striving to save their lives, frantically uncertain where to turn and run except away from the water.

When the thousands of refugees began streaming from the stricken city, huge interurban buses, trucks and private cars took them to temporary rehabilitation centers. Four truckloads of food donated by private citizens was distributed.

The Red Cross called in a team of radio hams to maintain communication with scattered relief centers and actual rescue operations in Vantage.

An airplane pilot, Calvin Hulbert, was over the area when the dike broke.

"There was no warning trickle," he related. "There was suddenly a six-foot breach in the railroad embankment. Then it was 60 feet, then 600."

"A wall of water 10 feet high slid through the breach, striking down whole apartment buildings like a bulldozer knocks down a sapling."

The buildings seemed to burst as the water hit them. I saw the whole wall of an apartment pop out like a balloon exploding."

DOROTHY DIX Stepfather and Boy

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a boy 19 years old. Three months ago my widowed mother married a man who has moved into our house. He disliked me very much and was very sarcastic in everything he said to me, and that would start a fight between us. Finally I had to get out, as my mother advised it.

I have been gone over two months now and have just been laid off of work. I owe money to the bank and have only $15. Also, I am terribly homesick, and I am not allowed to go back home. JACK

ANSWER: You have my heartfelt sympathy, Jack. For when a mother turns her son out of his father's house to make room for a new husband, it hurts more than any other blow that Fate can ever deal him. But, inasmuch as your mother has said you are going to get it down, determine that you will try all the harder to make good, because you are going to have to do it on your own.

This is my advice to you: Go to the bank and have a heart-to-heart talk with the president. Tell him about your mother's treatment of you. That will be hard for him to do, but it is nevertheless because it will raise the banker's sympathy. Then tell him you are going to get a job and that you will pay back every cent that you owe the bank. Also, ask the banker if he will not try to help you get work. There are very few older men who are not sympathetic with young boys who are trying to make something of themselves.

Turning Point in Life
This is the crisis of your life. If you haven't the courage to face it out, you will be a failure all through life. But if you are brave enough to make the fight, to work hard all day and go to school at night, instead of running around with wild crowds and drinking and carousing and spending your wages on gold-digging girls, you can make of yourself a fine man and be a success in the world. Plenty of men have done it before you.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My wife chose to leave me instead of leaving her dear mother. She claims she can't live without her mother around, and so she left me. But we have a baby only a little over a year old and I love him very much, and neither his mother or his grandmother is capable of providing for him as I can.

I love my baby, but I have no use for my mother-in-law. What shall I do?

ANSWER: Evidently your wife doesn't hold with the Biblical injunction about leaving father and mother and cleaving to a mere husband; so it leaves a husband in a truly desperate position when his wife ups and takes the baby and goes back to Mom for no reason except that she cares more for her mother than she does for him.

But my observation has been that such cases money talks the loudest, and that if you have the nerve to cut off your wife's income until she comes back to her daughter and the baby on a job again, she will soon be once more at home. For her mother is going to enjoy supporting her small income, nor is your wife going to want to give up the pretty clothes and comforts with which you have surrounded her.

Inasmuch as she is deserting you, it doesn't leave her in a good trading position to swap you off for her mother.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have been married now for four months. I am very happy with my husband and love him very much, but one thing that troubles me is that I cannot do cooking as he likes it done. When my husband and I were going around together before we were married, I told him that I had always worked outside of the home and knew nothing about cooking, but he said not to worry about that as I could easily pick it up. Now he tells me I am very stupid and when other girls can cook, why can't I do it?

This makes me very nervous and

Top Golfers Get Set for National Open Meet

Fort Worth, May 31 —(AP)— Ten golf's touring stars, including Clayton Hearner, winner of the $15,000 Colonial National invitation, remained here today to post qualifying scores for the national open while the others pushed on to Albuquerque, N.M., for a tournament that starts Thursday.

Hearner, from Charlotte, N.C., took down $3,000 first money in the Colonial meet by shooting his fourth straight sub-par round yesterday, finishing with a one-under 69 that gave him a total of 272 for that state tournament.

Allison Wins Arkansas Title

Fort Smith, May 31 —(AP)— A mistake he made in an earlier match helped Vincent Allison, the Fort Smith Junior, win the 1948 Arkansas title in the 11th championship, his first after years of trying.

When he knocked defending champion Johnny Buzick of Jonesboro out of the tournament in the quarterfinals, Allison overshot the 18th green on his approach. He had to go an extra hole to beat Buzick and afterwards observed:

"I'll play that 18th differently tomorrow."

Twice yesterday, in the semifinals and the finals, Allison came up to the 18th all even with his opponent. And twice he placed his second shot about four feet to the pin, making it possible for him to one-putt for a birdie three each time to win.

In the morning he conquered red-haired W. A. McGehee of Magnolia. He nosed out Bud Vernon, a fellow townsman, in the afternoon. The stiff final contest was a surprise. Allison, a seasoned tourney player, had survived competition in a tough upper bracket. Vernon, a 23-year-old lawyer who had been playing golf only a few years, had never before been in a championship tournament.

Vernon shook off his jitters early and he and Allison played the first half of the match in a series of pressure-of-play situations. Allison, a 23-year-old lawyer who had been playing golf only a few years, had never before been in a championship tournament.

Ex-Dodgers Doing Well for Pirates

By CARL LUNDQUIST

New York, May 31 — (UP)— It could be that Branch Rickey knows more about the Pittsburgh Pirates than he does his own Brooklyn Dodgers.

Before the season began, Rickey predicted that his Dodgers would win the pennant and that the Pirates, a sort of a Brooklyn auxiliary, would finish in the first division.

Rickey should know about the Pirates — he brought a lot of them up. And it must give him some confidence when the lads who used to perform under his leadership spend their afternoons winning games for the Pirates. For if he had some of them back in Brooklyn, the Dodgers might still be a good bet to win the pennant.

Yesterday, as the Pirates upset the Cardinals 9 to 3 and 7 to 6, to move within 1 1/2 games of first place, ex-Brooklyn hurlers got credit for both victories. Kirby Lumberman, the second, both in relief, Ed Stevens, former Dodger first baseman, who "didn't fit" with Rickey's plans, hit a first game homer and a second game grand slam.

Bathers Gain on Loop Leading Greenwood Club

Second-class lot. Springs narrow Greenwood's Cotton States League lead to two and a half games yesterday by winning two games from the cellarite Pine Bluff Cardinals, 17-1 and 10-2.

While the Bathers were swamping the Cardinals, Greenwood split with Greenville, dropping the first game, 9-8, and taking the nightcap, 12-1.

El Dorado and Natchez also broke even, the Arkansans squeaking past the Indians, 9-2, in the opener and going down to defeat, 4-3, in the second contest.

The up-and-coming Clarksdale Pirates led the five straight over Bill Outen of El Dorado, 10-1, and 7-4, in a Sunday twinbill.

The double victory boosted Clarksdale one notch in the standings to the fifth place position. Bill Outen of El Dorado twirled two games Sunday against the Indians, 9-2, in the opener and going down to defeat, 4-3, in the second contest.
